WHAT'S NEW

At Pinehurst's traditional North and South Open, A. G. Spalding & Bros. announced its 1941 headline golf pro news about needling—that patented shot-in-the-arm for Spalding golf balls. Needling, reports Spalding, will be available through pro-shops only in 1941. Needling, the power injection plus the famous Spalding True-Solution center that gives new distance and control, Spalding declares "steps up" inside pressure of a perfectly balanced ball so that even the average player can get the great kick that comes from giving a "power ball" a straighter ride!

The Spalding needled Double Dot is the toughest ball to ever survive a mashie massacre, Spalding declares. Spalding needled Dash is the ball for better-than-average players. The Spalding statement says that needling gives both these True-Solution center Spaldings the highest degree of internal pressure ever offered in a tough cover ball.

The Spalding Dot—the high-pressure ball for high-pressure hitters—has two thousand pounds of internal compression—is also a Spalding golf pro exclusive.

Travelrain Power Sprinkler Co., 362 N. Canon Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif., announces its Heavy Duty sprinkler model has been designed especially for use on golf fairways, and that with this unit, 600' x 100' of fairway can be watered evenly at one setting.

Power for sprinkler's operation is developed by a water turbine through a series of oil-bath reduction gears, and applied to a drum which winds up a cable, pulling the sprinkler over the ground. Upon reaching the end of the area, a hook on the cable trips a valve, shutting off the water automatically. One man can set or remove a Travelrain in about 10 minutes after which it needs no further attention for from 8 to 10 hours.

Steep hills, curves, trees, bunkers or other obstructions are no problem to the Travelrain; it will pull up or down any incline and can be made to follow a straight or irregular path as required. Complete literature and prices on the Travelrain sprinkler may be obtained by writing direct to the manufacturers.

Sport-Grip Mfg. Co., 6254 Champlain Ave., Chicago, tells how chemistry does its bit, too, to aid the golfer—that from the laboratory comes Sport-Grip cream, which gives a positive non-slipping grip of the golf club. Sport-Grip is not greasy or sticky, and is absorbed by the skin. It's also helpful in keeping the skin soft and smooth. Sport-Grip is good, too, for bowling and tennis.

A new type of golf shelter, featuring a revolving bench which permits the fullest enjoyment of fine weather and, at the same time, affords complete protection against storms, wind or inclement weather, has been designed and patented by E. G. Shinner of the popular Nippersink Lodge and Country Club, Genoa City, Wisconsin.

The shelter is ten feet square with a six foot six inch head clearance. There is a double bench eight feet long, the equivalent of two benches, placed back to back. The backs of the bench are constructed with louvers so as to provide ample ventilation, yet prevent rain from blowing or sweeping through. Between the opposing backs there is attached an adjustable protective shutter which may easily be raised for protection against sun, rain or wind and lowered out of sight when not needed. The bench, when the shutter is raised,

- . . . STERILIZES THE SOIL—SEEDS CAN'T TAKE ROOT IN IT.

One sprinkling of Dolge Weed-Killer controls the growth for a whole year under usual conditions. Kills weeds in traps. Keeps down nettles and thistles in the rough. Keeps drives, walks, gutters, parking lots and tennis courts clear.

forms a complete protective wall through the middle of the structure, the leeward side of which is completely sheltered from the elements; when lowered, it allows the occupants to enjoy to the fullest the summer breeze.

The bench is attached to the floor by a swivel bearing, permitting the user to swing it to face in any direction desired.

The design of the shelter is such that it fits in perfectly with golf course surroundings. It is an English type of architecture. Cost of material, using pine for the bench and fir for the main structure, concrete flooring and shake shingles, figures around $100 in communities where materials are most expensive. Two men, following the plans and specifications furnished, should complete a shelter in about three days.

Complete plans, with specifications, bill of materials and special hardware, are available to clubs at a nominal cost.

Caddie shortages are forecast for many sections, and in some places girls are being considered for this job. War industries have opened jobs for boys of 18 years or older. Many of the boys that are left are the small caddies. An injustice and even physical harm may be done these younger fellows, and most certainly, girl caddies, if they are allowed to carry the heavy bags some players now use.

The situation is rapidly developing the field for Kaddie Karts, say the makers of this device. They add: 'Kaddie Karts will enable a small boy to handle big bags. They are easily operated by women. Kaddie Kart will carry all the clubs, bags, umbrellas, sweaters, and any other material without additional effort.

"A club can pay for its Karts within a few months by charging for their use. Caddies who use them can be kept clean and presentable. Tee courses or those at considerable distances from town will find an additional source of revenue from rentals."

Evans Implement Company, 569-71 Whitehall St., S. W., Atlanta, Ga., announces that its Fairway Hoe, which has been received so enthusiastically by users since it was introduced just two years ago, will again be promoted in the company's 1941 advertising to the golf club field. Culti-Hoe users, which include golf clubs, schools and estate owners, are unanimous in their praise of the great work the Culti-Hoe has been doing in cultivating and aerating fairways and other turf areas.

Typical of the comments are the following: "We find the Culti-Hoe the best means of working our fairways; it breaks up the top crust, allowing water and air to get to the roots of the grass where the most good is obtained. We find it also does a fine job in ploughed ground to crush clods and level the surface to a fine finish." "The Culti-Hoe is almost a necessity to the proper care of fairways in that its use softens the fairways, keeps the crust broken and thereby aids materially in the growth of the grass."

The Evans Fairway Hoe will aerate and cultivate turf at the rate of 40 acres a day with a tractor. Weight is approximately 870 lbs., and is strong enough to support any weight without bending prongs, where additional weight is needed to get proper penetration in heavily crusted soils. For complete details on the Evans Fairway Hoe, and also for copies of the new 1941 Evans price list and catalog, write the Evans Implement Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Lead arsenate is generally used to control the grubs of Japanese and Asiatic beetles, May beetles, sod webworms, and earthworms. The treatment destroys the grubs in their usual feeding and burrowing areas, within three inches of the surface. It includes instructions on proportions, mixing and timing of applications.

Response to the Pictorial Score Card Co.'s announcement of its first annual Pictorial Score Card national handicap tournament during August, has been exceptional, according to reports from the company. Players at any club using a minimum of 1,000 Pictorial Scorecards during 1941 are eligible. However, course from which player enters must be over 5,000 yards in length. Nine hole courses must measure over 2,500 yards. All that need be done is to send in the lowest net score made on the course during the entire month of August.

All courses will be graded as to length—to give all an equal chance. Winner will be determined as follows: net score of the player will be divided into the yardage of the course and a "yardage per stroke" will be arrived at. For example, Mr. A on course B scores 92 less 24 handicap—net 68 on a course that measures 6,450 yards. Consequently his yardage per stroke is 94.8529. This decimal point method precludes the possibility of ties; however, should a tie occur, cards will be matched, and greatest yardage per stroke determines the winner.

All prizes will be in the form of merchandise, purchased through the club or professional. In addition, every club winner will receive a handsome scroll suitable for framing, with his name thereon as winner at his particular club. A new development in safety for golf and country clubs has come about by the use of Melflex "Mel Isle" runners and molded step treads, in use in aisles and on steps of street cars and buses for the protection of millions of passengers for over 10 years.

The distinguishing feature of these runners and treads is their rubberized fabric compound, a radical departure from ordinary rubber compounds. It is the rubberized fabric that gives these materials their high anti-slip value and their resistance to the abrasive action of millions of feet under all service conditions.

Many golf clubs have followed the practice of the transportation properties for the protection of their members and guests and have installed Melflex on steps, in corridors, on runways in locker-rooms and showers. With Melflex they also get the added satisfaction of discovering a runner material that actually resists the cutting action of spikes much better than ordinary types of rubber matting.

Melflex molded step treads in the diamond design are made of the same material. These treads are in high favor with casualty engineers and are approved by Underwriters' Laboratories, Inc.

A further adaption of "Mel Isle" runner material is the slip-proof shower mat utilizing its unusual property of equal slip resistance when either wet or dry. For further information on Melflex, or for quotations on any floor covering requirement, address Melflex Products Co., 222 Merriman Rd., Akron, Ohio.
