WHAT'S NEW

A delicate health and public relations problem for golf is appearing in the caddie shortage. The small boys are caddying double too frequently. The kids want the money but the work is too much for them. Private clubs have been slower than public courses in using the Kaddie Kart device as a caddie shortage solution, but this criticism of doubling by the smaller boys at the private clubs is supplying impetus to private club Kaddie Kart usage, says James Loye of the Kaddie Kart Co.

The Kroydon Co. announces that Alex McIntyre, pro at the Edison CC, Schnectady, N. Y., recently used a large Kroydon display panel showing the evolution of the manufacture of shafts, irons and woods. This was televised over Station WGY, General Electric station—the first time golf has been thus broadcast by television.

Jackson Sportswear Co., 14 E. Jackson Blvd., Chicago, had house-warming in its new quarters, April 14. About 250 pros attended during the day. Fred Newman and Ren Smith and others of the Jackman company report the attending pros gave substantial evidence of optimism concerning the dawning season.

Hillerich & Bradsby Co., Inc., Louisville, Ky., has recently distributed to the pro trade copies of its new 1941 Louisville Power-Bilt catalog. The catalog is most attractively printed on heavy stock, and measures 10"x13". The complete Power-Bilt line of golf clubs, balls, and accessories, and Duro-

Exceptional waste container and refuse burner values are being marketed, at interestingly low prices, by the Harrington & King Perforating Company, 5655 Filmore Street, Chicago. These sturdily constructed containers are fabricated from high quality steel, approximately $\frac{1}{8}$ " thick, which is a by-product of other manufacture and, therefore, priced far below their actual retail worth. Welded body seams assure long dependable out-door service without falling apart or collapsing.

The perforated cover supplied on the refuse burner is reinforced with an angle ring welded securely in place. Rain and sprinkler water drains readily through the perforated holes in the raised bottom. These containers are believed by the manufacturer to be the sturdiest on the market and by far the best buy in long useful service at far below average prices. Complete information

J. H. (Jim) Kincaid has recently assumed his new duties as U. S. ball representative in Wisconsin, making his headquarters in Milwaukee. He is taking over the territory formerly covered by A. W. Butterfield, well known after many years of association with golf pros and golfers in that section.

American Hydrolizer Co., Elmhurst, Ill., has announced that Turfolux Special, an all-soluble, all-purpose fungicide for control of fungus and nutritional diseases in putting turf, is now available. According to the company, Turfolux Special not only controls the existing disease but also prevents further spread of the attacks, and at the same time provides recuperative value that gives renewed vitality and color to the turf.

Considerable time has been spent in the development of this all-purpose fungicide, say the makers who tell that there is nothing in the Turfolux Special formula that will cause soft or lush growth, that it is safe to use either wet or dry, and that it will not, under ordinary climatic conditions, burn or discolor a green—nor will there be any detrimental reaction in soil fertility. For complete details on Turfolux Special, write the company, Elmhurst, Ill.

Toro Mfg. Corp., Minneapolis, Minn., in a recent issue of its "Toro News," does an unusual, but effective job of telling greensmen about Toro equipment. The entire issue is devoted to "Old Songs And When They Were Written." The songs and the year in which they were written, or became popular, date back to 1886, and continue to 1929. And then comes a reminder that 1941 will be another popular year for Toro equipment. In case you have forgotten when some old favorite of yours was written, and also if you need any reminder on just how old you're getting, it's suggested you write the Toro Company for an extra copy of its 'record of popular songs.'
