the Kansas City version of the Ryder Cup team vs. The Walker Cup team. Front page plugs and news stories on the event and lively and attractive art on the Journal's sport pages make the event keenly discussed by golfers in the K. C. section.

In the first year's play the pros won only 4 of the 10 matches. The next year each team won 5 matches. Last year the pro team won 6 matches and tied one. Matches are 18 holes.

The Midwest PGA picks the pro team. The amateur team is selected by a group of K. C. amateur officials. Harry Railsback was pro non-playing captain. "Speed" Swift was the amateurs' non-playing captain.

Admission to the matches is free. Swope Park's No. 1 course is a hilly one and hard going in hot weather for spectators, but the matches have drawn as many as 4500, with about 1000 being turned away because of lack of parking space.

Bag Rack That Saves Room Helps Pros

By E. W. HARBERT

Pro, Marywood CC, Battle Creek, Mich.

Club racks are a problem in many small shops. Preservation of bags and clubs, and maintenance of a neat appearing shop, together with speed in locating a member's clubs, are essential in pro shop operation.

Lack of money, and now, in some cases, difficulty of getting steel prevent installation of bag racks badly needed at some shops.

I have worked out a bag storage arrangement that cares for the bags satisfactorily, in small space and for little money. I take a 2 x 4 and bore holes in it, inserting round dowels or pins made out of broom handles which are worked down to fit the bored holes. The dowels are put far enough apart to accommodate Charley Duncan (right), veteran pro at the Jasper National Park course in the Canadian Rockies, shows Ivan Dmitri, celebrated color photographer, one of Jasper's unique tee markers. Each tee on the Jasper course has a contour marker similar to the one Charley is pointing to, which not only gives the correct yardage but plots traps, bunkers and other hazards.
