

Golfing Interest Great as Ever

UNDER conditions of wartime pressure the desire to break away from routine tasks for the recreation and exercise that golf provides will be stimulated rather than diminished; but, in these days, golf encounters competition from many new quarters.

It must combat pressure of time, gas rationing and restrictions on equipment.

No longer can you depend upon golf alone to bring the membership out in force. Like many industries, you have a serious task of wartime "conversion" to perform.

Your club, under today's conditions, can flourish only if you create multiple attractions, designed to bring people to the club.

The skill and energy with which you create these multiple club attractions will determine the extent to which members will consider attendance worth while. Golf, today, must "share the ride" with dining and bar service, social life and entertainment.

Executives Need Golf ... says Gene Sarazen

"I have been traveling from one end of the country to the other, and the thing that has struck me most forcibly is the condition of men at the heads of companies involved in war work . . . They're flabby! . . . The big trouble is, they don't allow themselves some portion of the day for exercise . . . I'm naturally prejudiced in favor of golf . . . but I'd suggest anything that will get them out in the air for healthful activity each day."

... if you want to keep golf going

Bill, I feel "top hole" today. Let's get some new golf balls.

Hi-ya, Jack! Let's Wilson!

WILSON PLANTS ARE AT WAR

If you visit the plants of Wilson Sporting Goods Co. today, you will be proud to see the activities here directed to the winning of the war.

You will be amazed at the fact that so many departments which normally turn out quality equipment for sports and exercise are now converted to the manufacture of less familiar war equipment. But you can find satisfaction in the thought that every wheel turning in the interest of the war effort is helping bring nearer the day when the pleasure of peacetime life can be enjoyed to the full again.

Those leather helmets you see coming off the line by the thousands are not football helmets, but crash helmets to protect the heads of our men in the front.

Those thousands of yards of canvas are no longer going into golf bags and sports equipment, but into cots and tents for American troops in many lands.

That department over there is now busy with the production of aviators' kits.

We trust that materials will be allotted in sufficient equality to assure ample replacement of equipment for vital wartime sports programs. But, meanwhile, we're busy on aviators' kits, crash helmets, cots and tents for the boys on our world-wide fighting fronts.

have a half dozen balls.

Sorry, Mr. Blake, I haven't a single ball in the shop.

W-H-A-T!!!! Didn't you send any used balls to Wilson? That's terrible!!
