THE SEASON is on, and all over the country, golf has the official "green light."

Those who have been timid about playing golf in wartime can take it on the authority of Ed Dudley, president of the Professional Golfers' Association, that they have the "go ahead" signal from the top man of the U. S. Manpower Commission, Paul V. McNutt.

Mr. McNutt, naturally, emphasized that the war-effort must have first consideration. But he was surprised to learn, according to Mr. Dudley, that many people had failed to realize the place recreation and exercise has been given in the war program.

Anyone who wishes to play golf in his spare time and who can do so without abusing transportation privileges may proceed with no fear of being considered unpatriotic.

Many golf courses can be reached by public conveyances. Mr. Dudley suggests and country clubs otherwise situated may in many cases find it practical to provide horse-drawn vehicles to get their players to the courses.

Wilson Sporting Goods Co. is happy to have this official stimulus to the campaign for American sports that it has carried on for two years through advertising space in leading publications.

A LIFE-SAVER FOR GOLF

This is the only "pill" that will save the life of golf.

It's a used golf ball—the kind you find hidden away in lockers—in golf bag pockets—around the home, garage and office.

It isn't much to look at, now. But it has the stuff in it that makes the best golf balls produced today—Wilson's "Accurated" Rebuilds.

You can get only as many rebuilds as you send in used balls suitable for rebuilding . . . and Wilson's "Accurated." The "Rebuilds" we send you may save the life of golf at your club. Don't put it off.

Americans must remain alive to the wartime importance of keeping the Nation physically fit through active participation in sports.
