No expenses or fees are paid to the pros by clubs staging the benefit matches and illustrated souvenir programs, posters and admission badges are supplied without charge to the clubs.

British golf clubs expect the government to treat them fairly in paying war damage bills when it's possible to appraise and repair such damage . . . Bomb damage, damage of tanks or other heavy vehicles where courses were used as training grounds, and removal of concrete, rail, wire and mine defense works constitute greater part of the war damage . . . Turf hasn't been getting much care although some clubs still manage to maintain nurseries.

BOY OFFERS FAIR SWAP: GOLF BALLS FOR GUM

Seeking golf balls, an AAF lieu-tenant filed an ad in an English paper. He received this reply: "Dear American officer, I am Peter Turner, aged 9. I will trade my four golf balls for two packages of candy or chewing gum. P. S. If you fly a B-17, you can have them for nothing."

Comrade Dupont Conducts Another African Event

★ CPL. PAUL M. CAMPBELL, Stock-bridge, Mass., amateur, won the North African Open champion ship from Sgt. Joseph Ciracella, former Tuckahoe, N. Y., pro, by a 2 to 1 decision in 36 holes.

A field of 24 players from 21 states competed. Qualifying scores ranged from Ciracella's 77 to the 106 of Pvt. W. H. Holmes of South Bend, Ind. Golf of U. S. servicemen in North Africa is handicapped by lack of equipment but more so by lack of time for play. The events are promoted by Cpl. Howard Dupont, a veteran of World War 1. Dupont is widely known in golf as having been in charge of scoreboards at USGA and PGA national tournaments and because of having conducted the news and tobacco store at Pinehurst.

The Dupont establishment at Pinehurst was noted as having the only ancay in the country where copies of the Congressional Record were stacked up as reading matter. Distinguished visitors would walk to Duponts from the Pinehurst hotels, get into the johnny and become so absorbed in national affairs by perusing the Record they'd practically have to be dragged off to keep engagements at the tees.

Charley Oehler, pro at the Louisville (Ky.) CC, has a large box in the center of the locker-room, and on the box are displayed posters of various ball-makers advertising the urgent need of balls for reprocessing.

Ochler also has prominently displayed on the box a sign advising that a bag of practice balls always is available in his shop for members. Golfers learning that they can get practice balls are far more inclined to let their surplus of used balls go for reprocessing. Scotch golfers head The Thistle Foundation which is to establish a housing project, clinic and recreational facilities in Scotland, at which severely disabled officers and men who are unable to pay more than a nominal sum for accommodations and services provided can live with their families in homes of their own.

American servicemen who have been extended cordial hospitality by Scots have asked GOLFDOM to call this fund to attention of American golfers. Individual contributions of the prewar price of two new golf balls are being solicited. Remittances should be sent to Messrs. Graham, Smart & Annan, C. A., 22 Charlotte square, Edinburgh, Scotland.

18-hole Tradition Is Shaken

★ "THE TRADITION that the round of golf must consist of eighteen holes is rather rudely shaken by the exigencies of war and many golfers are finding that they can get complete pleasure out of twelve or fourteen holes; indeed, elderly players are coming to regard fourteen as suitable and satisfying recreation.
