

cations . . . each lasting six to ten hours. Pellent has the same vegetable gum and wax base found in many of the fine cold creams and hand lotions.

This new product, developed from a formula used by the Armed Forces on the bug infested islands of the South Pacific, will be a boon to those golfers who have been plagued by biting flies of ravines and gullies, sand fleas of the bunkers, the early evening mosquitoes found on the fairways and greens . . . and all of the other bothersome pests usually found on golf courses during warm weather.

PORTABLE HOSE REEL

An entirely new type of hose reel is being marketed by The Zierden Company, 3815 South Kinnickinnic Avenue, Milwaukee 7, Wis. This new reel operates exactly opposite to the conventional winch-type reel. The cover acts as a pivot on which the reel spins. To coil, the hose is simply pushed into the reel which automatically revolves as the hose is fed into it. To un-coil, the hose is merely drawn out. This new reel is made of heavy rust-resisting steel. For complete information, write direct to the company.

DU PONT PRESENTS ARASAN SEED TREATMENT

The Du Pont company for years has been working on seed disinfectants for grains, sugar beets, cotton, etc. It decided to do a research job in connection with mixed lawn grass seeds. It did this at its Semesan Laboratory, Minquadales, Del. Average increases of 46½% per cent were obtained in the stands of mixed lawn grass seeds by treating the seed in this series of tests. As a result of this research work, Du Pont has introduced seed treatment of grass seeds as a recommended practice.

Arasan seed disinfectant, one of the family of Du Pont seed disinfectants and turf fungicides, is being recommended for mixing with grass seed before sowing, at a rate of 8 ounces of Arasan to 100 pounds of seed. Arasan seed disinfectant acts to destroy disease organisms on the grass seed. The chemical remains with the seed after it is planted to reduce the infection of disease organisms from the soil. As a result, seed rotting can be reduced, even in cold damp weather.

One of the contributions seed treatment can make is to protect the new seedling from attack by damping-off organisms which kill off a high percentage of untreated seeds, particularly under adverse weather conditions.

L. L. Stirland, sales manager of Du Pont's Semesan Section, said, "When our research laboratory discovered this new application for Arasan, we could quickly visualize what this could mean to the greenkeeper of a golf course where quick, solid grass growth means time and money to the club."
