Babe Watrous Beats Kid Hutch for PGA Senior Title

Al Watrous, 51, beat Jock Hutchison, 67, for the PGA Senior championship at Dunedin in extra distance after a tie at 142. Watrous, winning his second consecutive pro elders' championship got a comfortable 75 to add to his previous 69-73. Old Rocking Chair blew a fuse for Jock on the third round with an 81. Jock had whipped around like a kid for his 73-69 for the regulation route.

Some amazing golf was shot by the patriarchs in this merry annual event. Charley McKenna won Group Two (55-59) with 71-75—146, Eddie Williams with 70-77—147 won Group Three (60-64) and Jim Wilson led the Special Group (70 and older) with 80-81—161. Watrous and Hutchison, of course, won in their respective groups. Tom Clark at 73 was the oldest of a large field. The lively dean of Kansas City's Blue Hills strolled around the PGA National course in 89-88—177.

Hutchison and Bill Gordon paired with junior Bill Simpson to win the senior-junior best ball event with 67. The 69 of John Bird and James Cockburn won the seniors' best ball affair. In the 70-and-older group George Livingstone of Nashville's Bellemeade club got 80-82—162 to lose to dapper Grandpappy Wilson by a stroke and give youngsters in their 50s and 60s an impressive demonstration of stickwork.

When you consider that most of the senior field is so busy working at golf they don't get much of a chance to play in the summer the scores in the PGA oldsters were great exhibits of the value of sound golf swings learned with fellows who learned right.
