Industrial Golf Discussed at NIRA Conference

Discussion of industrial golf course maintenance was one of the more popular items on the program of the 18th National Industrial Recreation Assn. conference held in Philadelphia late in May. Rex McMorris, executive vp of the National Golf Foundation, was in charge of the panel discussion. Speakers included Carl Klandrud, Allis Chalmers Co., C. R. Gillaugh, National Cash Register Co., Tom Canary, Jr., Dow Chemical Co., M. F. Bridges, Union Bag Co., and Gene Berce, Miller Brewing Co.

About 100 industrial firms now have courses or ranges. One of the first to have a course was Oneida Ltd., of Oneida, N.Y., which opened its first 9 holes in 1896. The growth of industrial golf is best exemplified by the E. I. duPont de Nemours

Members of Red Run GC, Royal Oak, Mich., recently helped Supt. William (Bill) Smith observe his 40th year with the club. The festivities were climaxed by a dinner at which Bill was given a silver plaque and a microscope and Mrs. Smith, a silver bowl. Supts. in the Detroit area were invited to attend the event and five Detroit pros, including Red Run's Frank Metzger, also were on hand. Others who were asked to take a bow at Bill's party included his two assistants of more than 25 years' standing, Bill McMartin and Ed Clann. Smith, who is known as "Mr. Red Run," took over the Royal Oak course shortly after it was converted from four separate farm tracts in 1919 and developed it into one of the country's most beautiful layouts.

& Co., Inc. of Wilmington, Del., which opened its first 9-hole sand green layout in 1923. Today it has 63 holes for employees, including three 18s and one 9.
