

of the MGA sponsored tournament schedule was the playing of the 33rd Metropolitan Seniors. Another was the staging of the 11th Intercollegiate in which 19 colleges competed.

On the financial side, the association's income exceeded expenses by about $2,500. This was in contrast to an operating deficit of $8,500 the previous year. The deficit financing was wiped out in 1960, the MGA report says, because of an increase of about $13,000, realized from the Revenue Plan. Under this program, monies owed the association were collected by unrelenting telephone and personal contacts. The MGA's surplus account showed a debit balance of nearly $25,000 on Oct. 31, 1960.

McLeod, Brady and Demaret in PGA Hall of Fame

A pair of the game's Old Guard and another great who is on the borderline between the modern and middle ages of U.S. golf were named to the PGA Hall of Fame for 1960. They are Fred McLeod, 78, the oldest man ever elected to the select group, Mike Brady, 73, and Jimmy Demaret, who recently observed his 50th birthday. Their selection brought to 26 the number of men who are listed on the Hall of Fame roster.

McLeod, the oldest living Open champion, was born in Scotland in 1882 and came to this country as a pro 21 years later. His Open victory came in 1908 when he defeated Willie Smith in a playoff after both had shot 322 over the regulation distance. Thirteen years later he was runner-up to Walter Hagen for the USGA title. In the intervening years McLeod tied for third once, finished fourth twice and eighth twice. Still active as a teacher at Columbia CC, Chevy Chase, Md., where he has been located since 1912, McLeod won the Western PGA in 1905 and 1907 and the North-South Open in 1909 and 1920. He was runnerup twice in the Western Open and in the PGA Championship of 1919 lost to Long Jim Barnes in the final.

Still Plays Daily

Mike Brady, who still plays golf daily at his home in Dunedin, Fla., was among the first of the outstanding native born pros. A great money player, Mike distinguished himself in at least three Opens. He was second in 1911, lost the 1919 affair to Walter Hagen in a playoff and finished third in 1912. The 291 that Brady shot at Oakland Hills in Detroit in winning the 1922 Western Open wasn't surpassed until Ben Hogan shot the same course in 287 in the 1951 Open. Brady won the Augusta Open five times, St. Augustine Open three times, the 1917 North-South and the 1918 Los Angeles Open.

Jimmy Demaret is one of the game's busiest men, being a TV golf commentator, pro at Kiamesha Lake, N. Y., in the summer and part owner of the famed Champions GC in Houston. Undoubtedly his greatest claim to fame as a competitor stems from his victories in the 1940, 1947 and 1950 Masters. He won six tournaments in both 1940 and 1947. He was runnerup in the 1948 Open and 1951 World Championship and on four occasions was a semi-finalist in the PGA Championship. In spite of his accomplishments as a player, Demaret may be best remembered in years to come as the man who set golf U. S. fashions free. His spectacular garb emboldened thousands of players to desert the mortuary styles for those that are comfortable and colorful.
