Swinging Around Golf

of China pro, who now is at Tokyo CC . . . This Free Chinese youth has been looking good for several years . . . At the end of the third round in the 1958 Canada Cup matches at Club de Golf de Mexico, he led Hogan . . . But none of them, anywhere, come close to Palmer, according to Sarazen . . . Gene says Palmer is like Jones used to be: he has the rest of the field playing for second.

Tom Creavy, 1931 PGA champion, begins his 14th year as pro at Saratoga Springs, N.Y. . . . Russell Stonehouse, pres., Indianapolis Park Board, while at the PGA Seniors, told about Indianapolis adding seven courses to its park golf system, bringing total public courses to 12 . . . Russell is a former pro . . . He and his brother Ralph, who has a semi-private course at Middleport, N.Y., play the Stonehouse family championship each winter in matches in the Miami area.

Quite a little talk at PGA Seniors about Olin Dutra being passed up in voting for the PGA Hall of Fame . . . Big Olin is long overdue, many old pros say . . . He won the National Open in 1934, the PGA in 1932 and was on two Ryder Cup teams (1933 and 1935) . . . Something else the veterans were chatting about is the possibility of a revival of the PGA championship at match play . . . They think that in about three years the present crop of tournament pros will be rugged and colorful competitors and will want to prove that head-on they're better than the next guy . . . The long list of exemptions for this year's PGA championship had old pros laughing . . . They asked what two or three pros will have to qualify for what used to be the hardest championship to win.
