On the Professional Side

being the most comfortable shoe a person can wear.

There are two things that I do want to bring up about displays. The first is that it is old fashioned to display shoe boxes. Your better shoe stores dropped the custom several years ago. You'll sell many more shoes if you put the boxes back in the storeroom and only show the shoes.

We mentioned in last month's article (page 42) that professionals may want to mount some of the more colorful catalog display pages and show them in lieu of stock. Just recently we saw this done. About 20 pages were mounted on heavy maroon paper and attached to a bracket fitted on to a pole lamp. All the customer had to do was flip the pages to look over the display. Possibly you have seen the same idea in music shops where records are displayed on pole lamps in similar fashion.
