

PGA ANNUAL MEETING

The PGA of America will consider resolutions which have been proposed in advance for changes in its constitution during the association's 50th annual meeting Oct. 31-Nov. 4 at Palm Beach Towers, Palm Beach, Fla.

Also on the agenda will be the election and installation of officers and new members of the PGA Executive Committee; disposition of "old and new business" matters before the association, and reading of reports by the officers, committee chairmen and department heads.

The Executive Committee will meet at the Palm Beach Towers during the preceding weekend, starting Oct. 28.

sons. Let the head pro hire and fire his assistants. National or PGA local boards do not accept criticism or listen to the pros' gripes. The driving range non-PGA pros should not be allowed to sell PGA top pro-line equipment and chisel in on equipment prices and lessons."

"Promotions should be directed more to the club professional. Emphasize that the club pro is the backbone of golf and that they have to put up with members buying so-called discounted equipment."

"Contact new people in golf and get them to join. I was never contacted, and still am not a member because of not knowing what PGA section I am in."

"We are no longer golf pros. We are businessmen. Stop harping about teaching and lessons. None of us has time for this any more—leave it to the assistant. Get this over to the membership in a diplomatic way."

"I believe they are starting to program now. However a capable business manager is necessary to handle TV and the tournaments. We need someone to visit the different sections to give advice and tell the pros how to operate shops efficiently, both for themselves and their members."

"I am superintendent as well as pro at my club. As far as I can see, there is not much advantage in joining the PGA. What can it do for me, and why does it cost so much to belong? I have been a pro for eight years."
