Carrier revised for golf course duty

The frame of the Titan burden carrier has been modified by the manufacturer, Cushman-Ryan, to allow clearance for wide turf tires. The maintenance vehicle can carry 1,500 pounds and travels up to 13 miles per hour. A 36-volt power pack enables the vehicle to be used for 35 miles without being recharged. The modified model must be factory-ordered. Cushman vehicles are marketed by OMC-Lincoln.

Two new steins for club bars

Food and beverage service operators can serve beer in heavy glass beer mugs from Libbey Glass, a division of Owens-Illinois. The 12-ounce beer stein (left) has a surface which allows a beer brand emblem or club name and logo to be imprinted. The English Pub Mug is a stein from the age of "ye olde pub" in England. It has a 19½-ounce capacity. Both mugs are packed in one-dozen cartons.

New version of popular putter

A new Bulls Eye putter, a wide-flanged model, has been introduced by Acushnet Co. The traditional blade has been varied so the new model improves weight distribution without sacrificing features of the Bulls Eye which has gained acceptance of pros on the Professional Golfers' Association of America Tour. One advantage of the new putter is the reduction of torque and drag when the ball is stroked. The sweet spot slot which is part of other Bulls Eye putters is also included in the new model to aid alignment. Another feature which has been carried over from other models is the hosel construction, which can be straight or offset. Golfers also have their choice of round or paddle leather grips. The club comes in lengths of 34, 35, or 36 inches. The shaft is rated "R."

Chemical dishwasher

The Mark IV dishwasher, a single-rack, stainless steel machine introduced by ChemMARK International, saves money since it eliminates the booster and retainer tank heaters needed by other dishwashers to heat rinse water. Instead, a chlorine solution is injected into rinse water which is 40 degrees lower than the temperature in current machines.

Device kills insects

A portable, electric device which kills flying insects is available from Flintrol, Inc. for use in lobbies, offices, dining rooms, and other areas where appearance is important. The 8611S model has two 14-watt lamps that attract insects to the device. The bugs are electrocuted and their remains caught in an escapeproof tray. The device operates continuously and a safety switch shuts off power when the tray is removed.

IN BENTGRASS, IT'S THE ERA OF EMERALD!

In days past Golf Superintendents selected Seaside...Astoria...or Highland because —when it came to bentgrass—that's all that was available.

Then came Penncross. This truly modern variety is a great turf grass. Its only serious challenger is proving to be Emerald (Smaragd variety), the entry developed by Sweden's W. Weibull from a single, superior progeny of Congressional (C-19).

Emerald deserves a second look. Some say it equals, or is better than Penncross in actual use. They have their reasons. Here are just a few:

- Exceptional uniformity — no objectionable grain or patchiness
- Excellent vigor—more vigorous than Seaside and slightly less vigorous than Penncross, thus thatch build-up is minimized.
- Disease resistant—no marked susceptibility to common turf diseases or customarily used chemicals.
- Highly competitive pricing—superior in quality and yet it won't destroy a budget.

YOU OWE IT TO YOURSELF TO INVESTIGATE EMERALD
