

Golfdom

MARCH 2000 • VOLUME 56 • NUMBER 3

New

38

Put in Good Repair?

“Original” greens restorations are in, but they’re not always the right thing to do.

By Hal Phillips

53

Practice Facility Makes Near Perfect

Tom Fazio’s World Woods gets high marks for quaintness and attention to detail.

By Geoff Shackelford

40

How Far Do You Go?

A master of design speaks his mind about course tinkering and time.

By John LaFoy

58

Raynor Course Rejuvenated

A superintendent’s startling discovery and an architect’s candid criticism led to a course restoration at Yeamans Hall Club.

By Larry Aylward

Blood

cover story

BY GEOFF SHACKELFORD

Our intrepid architecture editor profiles Bobby Weed and other up-and-comers of golf course design.

24

columns

- 10 Flagstick
The Bottom Line of Mergermania
- 23 Shades Of Green
Time to Protect the "Ides" of March
- 50 Golf By Design
Golf's Latest Flaw Is Literally Glaring
- 66 Money Shot
Goofy Ideas Lead to Themed Links
- 69 Talking Tech
Solve Problems the Web Way
- 98 Out of Bounds
The Best Sports Flicks

case studies

- 70 Sticky Situation
Kansas superintendent wanted to use as many organic fertilizers as possible — but without all the fuss.
- 87 Sand on Steroids
Soil amendment bulks up sand green drainage capacity departments

- 8 Events
- ◀ 12 Off the Fringe
- 20 Hole of the Month
- 92 Leaders
- 94 Company Line
- 97 Classifieds

76 In Organics They Trust ▶

These superintendents tried biological fertilizers to treat turf — and were impressed.
By Larry Aylward

About the cover

Jacksonville, Fla.-based photographer Marcy Appelbaum shadowed golf architect Bobby Weed recently as he went to work on the upcoming Fleming Island Plantation in Orange Park, Fla.

82 Not Your Father's Fertilizer

New technologies have expanded the possibilities, but it takes homework to decide which one is best for you.
By Frank H. Andorka Jr.

News with a hook

- 12 The Open: Youngsters Need Not Apply
- 18 Scanning the Web