

Golfdom

AUGUST 2010 • VOLUME 66 • NO. 8

With an AIM to PLEASE

20 Despite tight maintenance budgets, superintendents continue to provide players the best conditions possible.

BY LARRY AYLWARD

28 The 'Green' Dilemma

Most golfers aren't ready for brown turf — no matter how much they love the environment. What happened at the U.S. Open proved that.

By Geoff Shackelford

About the cover

Superintendents know that golfers are their bread and butter. Photo by iStock International Inc.

52 The More Things Change ...

Veteran superintendent reflects on what he knew 22 years ago compared with what he knows now.

By Ron Furlong

55 Pow! to Poa

Superintendents say herbicide eradicates pesky weed during fairway renovations.

By Larry Aylward

columns

- 4 Pin High
The Golf Industry's Mixed Message'
- 16 From the Back Tees
Time to Stop the Stereotyping
- 18 Turf M.D.
There's a New Buzzword in Town
- 64 Shack Attack
The Soul of the Game

departments

- 6 Off the Fringe

Turfgrass Trends

This month, Golfdom's practical research digest discusses how to differentiate between wear and compaction, and how their interaction affects turf stress. Also, a combination of fertigation and subsurface drip irrigation could provide quality turfgrass while reducing possible nitrate-nitrogen contamination and water use. See pages 59-63.

Keep Up to Date

Check out our up-to-date news at www.golfdom.com. Also, watch your e-mail inboxes for our electronic newsletters, including The Insider, On the Green, Chip Shots, Puttin' Down Roots and Inside Irrigation.