

Golfdom

JULY 2010 • VOLUME 66 • NO. 7

Don't Get Complacent!

20

Experienced superintendents offer advice on how to stay fresh, focused and frank in an ever-changing and demanding profession. BY KEN KRIZNER

columns

- 4 Pin High
On Woodward's 'Resignation'
- 16 From the Back Tees
This Silver Fox Still Has Some Game
- 18 Turf M.D.
Lessons Learned From Bacterial Wilt
- 64 Shack Attack
Wooden's Wisdom

departments

- 6 Off the Fringe
- 14 Hole of the Month

28

Runnin' Down a Dream

Bob Farren didn't get to one of the world's great golf meccas by luck.

By Larry Aylward

About the cover

Rob Ghosh photographed these resting feet for our cover. Art director Carrie Parkhill then added her graphic touch.

54

A Change of Diet

Superintendents rethink the traditional way of fertilizing bermudagrass greens during grow-ins.

By John Walsh

Turfgrass Trends

This month, Golfdom's practical research digest discusses how to let turfgrass guide your fall nitrogen fertilization. Also, William L. Berndt offers a primer on soil redox potential. See pages 57-62.

Online Exclusive

Check out this video podcast and more only at www.golfdom.com:

Turf on a Tight Budget – Bayer Environmental Science recently held its Warm-Season Weed-Control Symposium. The event was attended by some of the top turfgrass researchers in the country. Golfdom's Larry Aylward caught up with several researchers to ask them this question: With a decrease in funding, do you feel more pressure than ever to do your job as a turfgrass researcher?

50

Bunkers and Bucks

Superintendents aim to reduce maintenance costs in sand hazards without causing a fuss.

By Anthony Pioppi

