

Golfdom

MAY 2010 • VOLUME 66 • NO. 5

Plant Health Report PART THREE

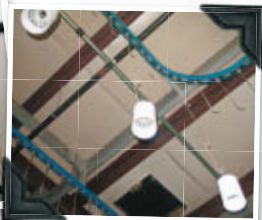

TENDING Tomorrow's 15 Turfgrass

BY JOHN WALSH

What will disease management be like in 2025? Insiders offer their views.

26 Staying Power

Thanks to its employees and forward-thinking leaders, the Standard Golf Co. has endured 100 years. By Larry Aylward

37 Whetting Their Appetite

Superintendents increase surfactant use as water concerns heighten and products improve. By John Walsh

42 Moving to the Front of the Class — Again

Massachusetts turfgrass programs get high marks for their improvement.

By Anthony Pioppi

56 Potpourri of Pond Products

Looking for products to use in your ponds? Look no more.

About the cover

We think this photograph by Mike Klemme fits our cover concept well.

columns

- 4 Pin High
Welcome to Weed's World
- 6 From the Back Tees
Livin' in the Real Golf World
- 8 Turf M.D.
Using Every Means of Communication
- 10 Gray Matters
Get IPM and BMPs on Paper — for Free
- 60 Shack Attack
Channeling George Carlin

departments

- 12 Hole of the Month
- 56 The Company Line

Turfgrass Trends

This month, Golfdom's practical research digest discusses a new native low-input turfgrass option called Danthonia. Also, Richard Hull writes about getting to the roots of nitrogen-use efficiency.

See pages 49-54.

Online Exclusive

Check out these podcasts and more only at www.golfdom.com/podcasts:

"Extinguishing Fire Ants," featuring Chuck Silcox, global turf and ornamental product development manager for DuPont Professional Products.

"Dealing With Dreaded Disease," featuring Kyle Miller, the senior technical specialist for BASF.