The organization is especially intimate with the pro field and its requirements. It has done a good job this year in putting two new products—the Bristol clubs and the Tufhorse Golfpax bag—on the market in a substantial way.

Chicago, Ill.—Annual sales meeting of Albert Pick Co., Inc., club, hotel and restaurant equipment company was held the week of Sept. 18. Pick representatives, in close touch with club field, reported prospects of much clubhouse equipment and furnishing rehabilitation, partially due to deferred work of last few years and partially to repeal of prohibition.

WORTHINGTON MOVES CHICAGO BRANCH OFFICES

Chicago, Ill. — Chicago office of the Worthington Mower Co. has moved to 1400 Fulton street, at Ogdan avenue. Telephone number remains Haymarket 8480. L. A. Ferguson, in charge of the Chicago office and midwestern sales for Worthington, points out that the new location is a most centrally located spot for golf club service to the north, south and west sections of the Chicago territory.

Do you want a man —or a man want you?

Golfdom's toughest job is the other fellow's job

We have many requests for jobs from pros, greenkeepers and managers and many club officials ask us to locate men for them, inasmuch as GOLFDOM is the only thoroughly circulated business journal of golf.

This employment business is a very heavy responsibility for us. We try to get the right man and the right club together.

Sometimes a man we suggest turns out "sour," but not very often. Sometimes a job is misrepresented, but that's not very often either.

We investigate as thoroughly as we can and the men we suggest have been sifted. We tell the shortcomings as well as the good points, for we deal only with human beings.

If we can help you as a club official get the men you want, command us. There is no charge for HELP WANTED advertisements in GOLFDOM.

J. B. HURLOCK PROMOTED TO WORTHINGTON PRESIDENCY

Stroudsburg, Pa.—J. B. Hurlock, who has been in charge of Worthington Mower Co. branch offices at Philadelphia, Cleveland and Chicago, has been elected president of the Worthington Mower Co.

C. C. Worthington, whose inventions founded and have developed the business, has been made chairman of the board. Other elections at the annual meeting of the corporation were as follows:

R. S. Worthington, v. p.; E. R. Sawtelle, v. p.; John Rodewald, treas.; C. R. Bensing, sec.

MAKES SPECIAL RUGS FOR GOLF CLUBS

Amsterdam, N. Y.—Amsterdam Textiles, well known maker of first grade rugs and carpeting, developed a rug material especially for golf club use. F. V. W. Blood, an Amsterdam executive, has served as a golf club official for a number of years and it was in accordance with his observations and experience that the Sof-tred golf club rugs and runners have been made.

The material is new, the weave new and the texture new; all being such as to resist the abuse of spiked shoes, dirt, mud, water and practice swings with irons. For 5 years before Blood put the Sof-tred on the market it was given harsh tests and now, after two years' actual service at a number of clubs has demonstrated its complete satisfaction.

Sof-treds are woven of long-staple cotton in bright, fast colors. They are washable and reversible. These rugs and runners lie flat and have rip-proof edges. Another important feature for golf-club service is

BUHRKE & DRAPER-MAYNARD JOIN FORCES

Chicago, Ill.—A sales and manufacturing alliance has been made by the R. H. Buhrke Co., club and bag makers of Chicago and the Draper-Maynard Co., Plymouth, N. H., makers of a full line of athletic goods. Sales forces have been consolidated and manufacturing schedules set so the new line-up is set to become a prominent factor in the field. Clarence Rickey, sales manager, of the R. H. Buhrke Co., is the man in the new combination most widely known to the golf field.

ED. WORTHINGTON HEADS NEW CROWN MOWER CO.

New York City. — E. H. Worthington, widely known in golf course equipment business as a manufacturer, is president and consulting engineer of the newly organized Crown Mower Co.. Temporary offices of the company are at 168 East 74th street. Arrangements for a factory in the New York district now are being made.

In announcing his new lineup Ed. Worthington advises that the experience of his 17 years in the gang and power mower field are happily reflected in the new Crown equipment. A feature of the Crown unit for fairways and lawns is that it can be used on multiple gang frames of various makes. Units have 30-inch cutting swath. Patents are pending on a simple device for removing the fly knife and a single hand positive adjustment for assuring constant parallel and rigid bed-knife action. A reversible special alloy steel double edge bed-knife is used. Easy adjustment from ¼-in. to 6-in. is another design feature stressed in the Crown unit.

Light and sturdy construction and design that eliminates weaving of the side frames are additional points of the Crown unit to which Ed. Worthington calls attention. The machine is packed with a special lubricant and requires no oil or grease. It is guaranteed for one year.

Prices and complete information on the Crown unit are to be made public soon.

Chicago, Ill.—Largest power sprayer at a Chicago District golf course has been sold by Bolsa Supply Co. to North Shore G. C. The outfit is a Friend 20 gal. per minute machine.

BALSHAG, NEW PRACTICE AID, LOOKS LIKE PRO SELLER

Modesto, Calif.—Shryer Mfg. Co. is making the Balshag, a device invented by Ian MacDonald. The device is a metal tube with fingers at the bottom for picking up practice balls. It is light weight, stands up and keeps the practice balls stored so the count can be made easily.

The convenience and utility of the device makes it look like it stands a good chance of displacing the practice ball bag with a lot of players. The Balshag sells for $2, with a good margin for pros, but the retail price will be all O. K. for a lot of the practicing golfers.

BENT GRASS SEED

Direct from the American farmer who grows it and thus be assured of a fresh, viable, winter-hardy product at a cost that is now less than it has been for more than a generation.

There are several elements which, together, will very materially increase the cost of your seed. For instance, at harvest time we have been working 10 hours a day, 7 days a week, to gather, cure and thresh the seed out of the hay. A seed-growers' code will soon go into effect, allowing but 44 hours' labor at the same wage as 70 hours.

Also, due to decreased demand and low prices during the last two years, acreage of fine turf production has been greatly decreased.

Furthermore, due to the financial condition of many clubs, they have curtailed their purchasing and many courses badly need reseeded.

SO HERE IS THE PROBLEM: Increased cost of production due to the code; decreased acreage in production; increased demand. Prices are bound to be much higher in the near future.

SOLUTION: BUY NOW.

All orders for green or fairway seed that I receive before the first of January, for immediate or Spring delivery, will be accepted at the present low prices.

CHINCH BUG CONTROLLED BY CYANOGAS

New York City.—The chinch bug, heretofore confining its attack on St. Augustine grass in the south, has become very active in many of the northern states and has seriously damaged greens.

A great deal of the dead-looking turf on golf greens, which followed the high temperatures of this past summer, was attributed to scald. It was to be expected that grass would suffer during the summer, and the burning hid the activity of the insect pests and enabled them to multiply unhindered.

The American Cyanamid & Chemical Corp. recently cooperated with golf clubs to find an effective and economical method for exterminating chinch bugs. It was found that one pound of Cyanogas A-Dust dissolved in 50 gallons of water was immediately effective. The solution may be applied either by sprinkling cans or by a boom from a watering cart, or by power sprayers. Fifty gallons of the solution is sufficient to cover 1,000 sq. ft.

The turf, especially if it is heavily matted, should be opened up with a spike roller before the solution is applied. Immediately after the application, follow up with a hose and water the solution well into the soil. Sprinklers should then be set on the area for from three to six hours. All night would be better, as the water forces the Cyanogas down into the soil, preventing the burning of the grass. If Cyanogas can be applied during a steady rain, watering may be dispensed with. The Cyanogas solution should not be used on grass under two months old.

MILLER FAIRWAY WATERING ASKS INJUNCTION

New York City.—Showdown on engineer and club rights involved in fairway water system designs is to occur in New York courts when hearing is held on suit of Wendell Miller for injunction to restrain Arthur Peterson from applying fairway watering design principles Miller claims as his property.

Miller, pioneer in golf course irrigation engineering, claims his system is unique invention for golf course work and cites installations at approximately 30 clubs since 1929 when first job of this kind was put in at Albany (N. Y.) CC. Peterson also is well known to the golf business as a supply and equipment dealer.

Outcome of the case can have no effect on cost of plans for irrigation systems, GOLFDOM is informed. Eastern Association of Irrigation Contractors and Engineers has proposed a code provision placing a minimum charge of 6% on the costs of complete irrigation systems for golf courses, for plans and engineering.

Overshoe Will Prevent Ladder from Slipping

IT IS by no means a new thing or practice to put some kind of rubber boot on the feet of a ladder to keep them from slipping or sliding when necessarily set on the concrete or other smooth surfaces. Occasions arise, however, when a precaution of this kind should be taken and there is nothing handy or immediate to afford it. The common low shoe rubber can often be used as shown, and quite handily too. Put the foot of the ladder in the thick soled heel of the rubber, bend the rest of it up and tie firmly in place.
