icated a 1934 season that will be many steps toward sound prosperity.

First day of the meeting was spent at the factory where salesmen had ample opportunity to become reacquainted with the manufacturing methods used to produce Hagen clubs. At the same time they were able to inspect many new precision devices that have recently been installed to maintain Hagen standards.

Second and third days of the meeting were convened at L. A. Young's summer home at Wing Lake, near Birmingham. A golf tournament was held on Saturday afternoon at the Tam O'Shanter C. C. The final gathering was a banquet in the evening at the Detroit Polo club.

The 1934 Hagen line of golf clubs and balls was shown for the first time at the sales meeting, and while little information has been made public about it, we understand it is considered to be the finest and most complete line the L. A. Young Golf Co. has ever produced. The 1933 season, they report, has been most encouraging, with total sales comfortably surpassing last year. The entire organization looks forward to 1934 with expectations of considerably increased business for the entire industry.

Kroydon's Chicago Headquarters are in Golf's Capitol THE LYTTON BUILDING

Among the leaders of the golf industry whose Chicago headquarters are in the Lytton Building is the Kroydon Golf Co., whose business in the midwest territory has grown to large dimensions.

Why Kroydon makes its Chicago home in the Lytton Building is told by Kroydon's Chicago manager, John Carnell.

Mr. Carnell Says:

"Kroydon is constantly bringing out improvements and to make it convenient for the pros to get acquainted with Kroydon's advances in the golf club construction quickly, we have our display and sales office where the pros all come—The Lytton Building.

"Here the pros have seen the Hy-Power shafts, the Kroydon flexible shafts and the other Kroydon improvements the minute these clubs come from our factory. That means the pro who is on the job can "scoop" competition by offering his members the new ideas first.

"We have found that the pro habit of making the Lytton Building their shopping headquarters has helped us and the pros."

(Signed) JOHN CARNELL

Chicago Manager, Kroydon Golf Co.

The Lytton Building is all that a first-class, modern office building should be—plus a location and moderate rentals and an established reputation as pro shopping headquarters that make it first choice as a location for the Chicago offices of active factors in the golf business.
