GREENBRIER one of the fine courses piped with CAST IRON

Eighth Green, Old White course, during West Virginia State open.

Many of the finest courses in America are piped with cast iron, their irrigation problems solved forever, without recurrent expense for replacements or maintenance. A fine course deserves the best—cast iron pipe—the standard material for underground mains. With cast iron pipe the first cost is the last cost. Sizes from 1¼ in. For list of clubs using cast iron pipe, write The Cast Iron Pipe Research Association, Thos. F. Wolfe, Research E'g'r, Peoples Gas Bldg., Chicago.
