Acushnet Process Co. is making its advertising drive to the playing public this year on the basis of a "double your money back" offer if the player isn't completely satisfied with the ball. The campaign is tied up with Acushnet's pro-only distribution policy.

The offer applies to Acushnet 75 cent balls and the player is told that if, after 18 holes, the Acushnet doesn't leave the customer all happy about the ball value he has received for his six bits the pro will give "double your money back" with no arguing.

Complete details of the pro-shop end of the proposition are being furnished the professionals.

A new catalog and price list on pro-shop repair, testing and recording equipment has been issued by the Ellingham Tool Co., Springfield, Mass. The book is well worth study by pros. A copy of it will be sent free on request.

Among the items covered in the Ellingham catalog are the Lorythmic swinging weight scale, shaft whip deflector board and hook and slice recorder; three devices that aid pros in scientific judgment of clubs to meet various players' requirements. Many of these instruments are being used with decided profit in pro-shop selling.

Other items described in detail in the catalog include the steel shaft repair kit, wood club repair kit, stain and lacquer kit and other tools and accessories, many of which were worked out by Jim Gallagher, clubmaking expert who did such fine work in his educational sessions before PGA sections.

Link, factory manager of the club division of the company; and R. Fulton Smith, Factory Manager of the golf ball division. George J. Herrmann was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

Satisfaction was expressed by the directors at the progress made in 1936, and the company is anticipating business for 1937 that will surpass anything in the previous history of the company.

Perfection Sprinkler Co., Plymouth, Mich., announces a new low priced proportioner. It consists of a handmade, rubber bag for carrying the concentrated solution of fungicide or insecticide. From the bottom of the bag a rubber tube leads to the mixing nozzle where the proper dilution takes place; the stream is broken into a spray as it strikes a flange in front. There are no small holes to become corroded or clogged and the entire green can easily be reached without moving far from the center of it.

The entire apparatus, excepting the brass nozzle, is made of rubber and is

The depression is over! Its last vestiges have disappeared! How do we know? Easy—the chairman of the house committee has ordered a new rubber runner for the locker-room floor.

The rubber runner isn't the only evidence though. The entire atmosphere in hundreds of golf clubs all over the United States is changing. Everywhere we go we see signs of prosperity. New decorations in clubhouses; new equipment in the greenkeeper's shed, and around the fairways.

It is a good sign. It means clubs are getting new members. It means there is more money in the treasury. And it works two ways. By spending some of the money for new equipment they attract other new members.

All of this evidence of prosperity checks closely with the latest figures from the golf department at United States Rubber Products, Inc. The sales staff up there tells us that clubs are not only buying more hose, rubber matting, and other equipment, but that they are buying better grades. US Rubber says they are selling more US Royal golf course hose than for years past. Greenkeepers are spotting the hose in more places. Practically every outlet around the course has its own shiny new coil all set to go into action.

Stanley Northrop, well known sales representative for many years of the L. A. Young Co., a fine amateur golfer and very well and favorably known in the southern territory, has taken over the MacGregor line in North and South Carolina, Georgia and Alabama.

A new and pleasantly scented deodorant is being put on the market under the trade name of A. V. A. by the manufacturers, Gibbs Mfg. Co., Canton, Ohio. Developed primarily to dispel unpleasant toilet odors, A. V. A. is finding many other uses around clubhouses in the elimination of cooking smells and in clearing the air of club rooms after parties, especially where there has been heavy smoking.

A. V. A. is effervescent, so that a little of it poured in a bowl of water leaves the air purified without chemical after odor.

Club managers are invited to write the Gibbs Mfg. Co. for a full size can free, so they can make a test of A. V. A.'s efficiency under actual clubhouse conditions.

Alf. H. Padgham, 1936 British Open Champion and winner of other outstanding national and international golf events, and Archie Compston, famous British golfer noted for his tournament play, have designed woods and irons which are being marketed under their names throughout the British Empire and on the Continent. The Goldsmith company is duplicating these models in their Cincinnati factory for distribution in the United States.

In addition to the Padgham and Compston Clubs, the Goldsmith company is also merchandising a complete line of special English putters and feature irons, and also two unusual English oval golf bags.

A complete section in the 1937 Goldsmith special pro catalogue is being devoted to this English equipment. The company states that the golf trade has received these new models with great enthusiasm.
