tees will be crab grass in hot weather, and bare ground in fall and spring until the new crab grass takes possession again. Better strains of bent, which will outperform the ones now available, will be developed. Up to now selections have been made for use on greens rather than on tees. The C-1 strain has excellent qualities from the playing and from the disease standpoint, but is a slow grower and may not repair itself quickly under heavy play. A mixture of C-1 and C-19 has possibilities and is worthy of trial in a small way at first.

Zoysia Matrella Promising

There are some excellent tees of zoysia matrella on the city courses at Louisville, Ky., and Aubudon CC in the same city has 15 tees of the same grass. The turf is tight, excellent for play and remarkably free of crab grass, clover, weeds and turf diseases. Zoysia does not require frequent close cutting to keep the turf tight. This grass may be the answer for tees in regions where it does not winter-kill. Unfortunately, seed is not obtainable, so vegetative planting must be employed to develop turf. The clubs in Louisville grow the turf in a nursery and transfer it to the tee, because the time required to develop turf from direct planting in the tee is too long. Clubs in similar climatic regions would do well to obtain planting stock for a small nursery.

PENN MOWER PLANT MOVED.—

Pennsylvania Lawn Mower Works, acquired by the American Chain & Cable Co. in 1944 is to have its mowers made in the plant at 1575 S. 6th St., Camden, N. J., which American recently acquired. Production in the modern 3-story concrete building will be started this month. All correspondence for the Pennsylvania Lawn Mower division should be addressed to the Camden plant.

JIM NICHOLS.

JIM NICHOLS JOINS SPALDING— Jim Nichols, the world's greatest one-arm golfer, has joined the staff of A. G. Spalding & Bros. as a pro representative and in sales promotion. Nichols got his start in golf by chance. Having lost his right arm in a railroad wreck and his business in the 1929 crash, he tried his hand at a round of golf as a recuperative measure at the suggestion of a couple of friends. His future career began when he found a ten dollar bill on the course. With it he bought two golf clubs and took up the game seriously. Since then he has achieved a brilliant exhibition career. He has shot seven holes-in-one.

One of A. G. Spalding & Bros.' "Sports Show" cartoon-style newspaper advertisements has been rated as the "ace national ad with men readers." by "Editor and Publisher" (Nov. 17) in No. 90 of the Advertising Research Foundation's Continuing Study of Newspaper Reading's list of best-read advertisements.

JCs and Spalding Join in Sports Promotion

A. G. Spalding & Bros. is sponsor of a nation-wide sports program of the U. S. Junior Chamber of Commerce, plans for which were outlined at a meeting of the Junior Chamber's Sports and Recreation Committee in Chicago, November 1 and 2. Spalding Promotion Mgr. Jack Purell (third from right) represented Spalding in the formulation of a tentative schedule by Jaycees (left to right) Tom Thompson of Miami, Fla.; Ray Rice of East St. Louis, Ill.; Travis Cowen of Houston, Tex.; Henry Kearns, USJC Pres.; Walter Dean of Spokane, Wash. (second from right) and Henry Heffner of Chicago (right). With the cooperation of "nationally recognized sports groups and authorities, such as AAU, the American Bowling Congress, the U.S. Lawn Tennis Assn., the U. S. Golf Assn. and civic, school and other groups" the program will include activities "in golf, baseball, tennis, basketball and football as the five leading national outdoor sports." Events already listed are: an international amateur golf tournament, Miami, Fla.; a national junior golf tournament in Spokane, Wash.; a national junior baseball tournament in St. Louis, Mo.; a national junior softball tournament in Houston, Texas. The 300 Junior Chambers of Commerce throughout the United States will participate.

Notes from the San Francisco Area

Burlingame CC has purchased 15 acres from the adjacent Crocker estate and plans to construct nine new holes to replace those closed and subdivided during the war. . . Harold Sampson, veteran peninsula professional and several times Northern California Open champion, will return as Burlingame's pro and will assist with designing of the new nine. Sampson left Burlingame in 1939—after 17 years service there—to become pro-manager at the California CC. . . Arthur Brooks, who replaced Sampson at Burlingame, recently resigned and returned to his former post at the Los Altos G&CC.

Sergeant Jim Ferrier, transplanted Australian who has been stationed at the San Francisco Presidio, won first money, $500, in a recent 54-hole Northern California open championship played at Tilden Park course in Berkeley. Ferrier's 211 was a stroke better than Corporal Ed Wysowski's second place effort.

Patients at the huge Oak Knoll Naval Hospital in Oakland are taking their swings on a 12-tee driving range on the hospital grounds today thanks to the Northern California PGA. . . The Section, headed by Eddie Duino of San Jose, with the aid of Northern California golfers, financed construction of the range and provided 250 clubs and 1700 balls as a starter. Local professionals visit the range at regular intervals to provide instruction for the patients. Earl Fry, Alameda Municipal Course professional, is project chairman.

Buckner Mfg. Co., Fresno, Calif., will make its first public showing of its complete postwar line of golf course irrigation at Booth 3, GSA show at Cleveland.

Thompson, St. Clair, Shafer and Purvis Return to Spalding

LYLE THOMPSON

Lyle Thompson, who from 1928 to 1943 represented A. G. Spalding & Bros. as golf pro representative throughout Long Island, Conn., Mass., and Miami, has returned to the company after three years of service in the Marine Corps. Enlisting in October, 1942, Thompson served in the Marshall Islands, on Okinawa and in Japan. He received the rank of Major and won three citations before his discharge. Thompson's territory will again be Long Island, N. Y.

After many years service in the golf club department in the Willimansett, Mass. plant of A. G. Spalding & Bros., John St. Clair recently was appointed to company's golf pro sales staff. St. Clair began his golf training in 1926 as assistant pro at the Longmeadow (Mass.) C.C. From there he went to Spalding as golf club inspector and technical assistant. He was chief inspector of the golf club department when in 1942 he resigned from the company to take a wartime job with the Springfield (Mass.) Ordnance District office of the Army. In his new position St. Clair will represent the company in Westchester area in New York state.

JOHN ST. CLAIR

Bert Purvis, golf pro salesman who left A. G. Spalding & Bros. to take a wartime position as an experimental aircraft mechanic, has returned to Spalding. Starting with Spalding in 1925, Purvis served as manager of the golf department of the firm's Fifth Ave., New York City store until 1937. In that year he joined the Spalding pro golf department and subsequently represented the company in New York State and eastern Pennsylvania.

Bill Shafer rejoined the golf pro sales staff of A. G. Spalding & Bros. which he left in 1943 to enter the army. As a pro salesman for Spalding he represented the firm in the States of New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania. Shafer received training at Keesler Field, Miss., and Fort Logan, Colo. Assigned to a B-17 Flying Fortress Group he sailed for England in January 1944. As administrative inspector he served in the European Theatre of Operations until June 1945.

BALANCED BAG BIG SUCCESS.— Since the first Balanced golf bag was made in 1943 after OK by War Production Board, more than 75,000 of the bags have been sold. It's believed that this lightweight patented bag has been the largest selling bag during the war years. It was welcomed by golfers who had to carry their own and by caddies, carrying single or double. With the war's end a new standard model Balanced Bag has been introduced. The new Standard Balanced is made of finest quality duck, in suntan or white. The top is reinforced with magnesium and the bottom is weather-proof masonite covered with treated duck and webbing. The wooden rod which balances the bag is of Appalachian straight-grain hickory. Of the past 35,000 Balanced bags shipped only one, and that shipped singly, had its stick broken in transit. The shoulder strap is padded with synthetic rubber. The new Standard Balanced bag has room for 15 clubs. An extensive national advertising campaign on the bag is being run in the spring by the Balanced Golf Bag, North and Noble Sts., Chicago 22, Ill. The Balanced bag has been a big seller at $5 retail in pro shops.

Vynylite, a new flexible plastic sheeting made by the Bakelite Corp., is being used for golf bags. The material is weather-proof and mar-resistant, and it's said not to crack or crock.

WOOD, RYDER CUP CAPTAIN.—

Craig Wood, duration National Open champion, was named to captain the 1946 Ryder Cup team at the recent annual PGA meeting. Wood will lead the same team chosen in 1942. Although there have been no International team matches scheduled for the coming year it is planned to have competition with teams made up of the foreign-born PGA members.

Reissue Metz Book.—The Macmillan Co., New York, is publishing a new edition of Dick Metz' The Secret to Par Golf, first edition of which was published in 1940 and quickly sold out at $2 a copy. The Metz book is profusely illustrated with many pictures from angles that clearly show points often difficult to explain.

★ W. F. GORDON BUILDING—Wm. F. Gordon Co., Bala-Cynwyd, Pa. is building a 9-hole course for Birch Hill CC, Lewistown, Pa., and rebuilding East Potomac Park course at Washington, D. C. The Gordon organization now is handling course construction work only. Gordon was a partner of Toomey & Flynn of Philadelphia from 1923 to 1942. In that time he constructed Philadelphia CC, CC of Brookline, Mass., Shinnecock Hills GC and other excellent courses. In 1942 he formed his own company for turfing airports and other large acres.

SWIM-FIN FILM.—A technicolor movie available for club showings has been made on Swim-Fin, showing interesting use of this new sports item in navy training, life-saving and sport. Famous swimmers appear in the film which can be booked through Wilson Sporting Goods Co. offices. Prints of the film are in great demand for club showings so booking should be requested well in advance.
