Roseman Tiller-Rake and the need for taking plows, discs, meekers, blades and drags to and from the job is eliminated.

Other uses, in addition to seed bed preparation, include renovating fire lanes, reconditioning bridle paths, parking lots, ball fields and sod fields, as well as raking and cultivating in orchards and nurseries.

The uniform spreading of cinders, sand, gravel, crushed stone and asphalt in driveway, parking lot, and road building maintenance is also accomplished in a very efficient manner with the Roseman Tiller-Rake.

KENT BRADLEY GOES NATIONAL ON TEE TOWEL BUSINESS

Clinton Kent Bradley, Mountain View, N. J., who has been selling bales of his "Best Tee" towels to eastern clubs for several years, now has national distribution thru course equipment and supply dealers.

The towel is of heavy cotton crash absorbent material, strongly stitched and with brass toothed grommet. In bleached white cotton the towel is available in 16 and 18 in. square sizes, and in unbleached cotton in 18 in. square size.

401-YARD DRIVE WINS McGREGOR SPORTSWEAR CONTEST

A 34-year-old electrician from Findlay, O., Charles Van Brunt, is the longest amateur driver in the United States on the basis of his winning the National Drizzler Driving Contest with a drive of 401 yds., announces the contest's rules committee, Sam Snead, Cary Middlecoff and Gene Sarazen.

Van Brunt's wallop paced the 50 finalists in this first nationwide driving contest which was sponsored by the McGregor Sportswear Co. of New York, and was 26 yards longer than the second-place drive of 375 yds. made by Thomas Alfred Sams, 33, of Macon, Ga.

Other top drivers were Bill Calise, of Garfield, N. J., with 365 yds.; Robert R. Baker of Ft. Collins, Col., with 354 yds.;

A golfer for the past 14 years, Van Brunt is 6 feet, 1½ in. tall and weighs 250 pounds. He was a member of his high school golf team, has won several local pro-amateur tournaments and has also played in the Ohio Open championships the past few years.

As his prize for winning the contest, Van Brunt receives a free all-expense vacation for two at the Greenbrier, White Sulphur Springs, and a week of golf lessons from Sam Snead.

METZ ADJUSTABLE SWING WEIGHT CLUB INTEREST AT OPEN

Dick Metz and Don Malarkey of the Professional Golf Co. of America, Inc., had a demonstration of the new Metz counter-balance adjustable swingweight club at Baltusrol during the Open and got many interested in the club.

The club has weights inserted and locked inside the top of the shaft to give the swingweight a pro determines is desirable for the club user after studying and experimenting as the prospective user's swing.

Metz, Malarkey and Chandler Harper who are associated in the manufacture and sales promotion of the club point out that weight in motion near the hands helps greatly in getting proper hand action. They further state that when lightening the clubhead to get desired swingweight by counterbalancing inside the top of the shaft weight in clubhead which helps distance is not sacrificed.

Providing a large assortment of swingweights in clubs without corresponding increase in shop inventory is an important point in helping the pro to accurately fit clubs, Metz, Harper and Malarkey emphasize from their own experience as club pros.

The explanations and demonstrations at the Open resulted in a number of sales which Dick and Don are having shipped thru pro shops of the golfers who were sold at the Open.

COTTRELL SELLING FOR JOLLY IN FLORIDA AND GEORGIA

Leslie Cottrell, prominent in New England PGA prior to enlisting in Air Force at start of World War II, now is out of regular military service and is located at 217 Hillcrest ave., Clearwater, Fla.

Cottrell is representing Jack Jolly, Inc., in Fla. and Ga., selling Silver King balls, Stewart irons and putters, Gibson putters and Jolly's accessories. Cottrell also is handling a golf headwear line and is figuring on handling other sportswear items for pro trade. He is adding a salesman covering pro trade in Georgia and other southeastern territory.

ACUSHNET GOLF BALL SALESMEN AT FACTORY

Acushnet Process Co. golf ball salesmen from the Eastern and Southeastern sections recently met at the New Bedford plant to get a close-up of equipment changes and process improvements. Shown are Fred W. Bommer, vp of Acushnet Process Co. and head of the golf ball div. William Bommer, asst. mgr. of the golf ball div. Standing, L to R: William Tolland, Lorman Kelley and Russell Mattern, salesmen; Carl F. Saunders, factory mgr., golf ball div.; Peter W. Henry, Arnold Minkley and George Smith, salesmen; Stanley J. Szulik, technical mgr., golf ball div.; W. L. Sharrett, salesman, and A. L. Hawes, credit mgr., Acushnet Process Co.

waterproof clothing, foam rubber cushioning and mattresses, coated fabrics, sponge rubber rug underlays, elastic yarns, water wear, plastic products, aircraft fuel cells, and rubber shipping drums.

Luxenberger, a native of Williamsport, Pa., started with U. S. Rubber as a production worker at the company's plant in Williamsport 33 years ago. In 1932 he was transferred to the Mishawaka, Ind. plant as manager of industrial engineering.

Successive promotions brought him appointment as factory manager in 1943. Eight years later he became assistant production manager of the division. A year ago he was appointed asst. gen. mgr. of the footwear and general products division.

Ward has been general sales manager of the division since 1951. He started work with U. S. Rubber early in 1925 as a sales clerk in the San Francisco branch.

BALL RETRIEVER AND RAKE IN COMPACT COMBINATION

Parway Mfg. Co., 2300 W. 59th st., Chicago 36, Ill., is making the Retrieval ball scoop which has fingers that can be unfolded to form a rake that will reclaim golf balls from muddy ponds or from beyond fences.

The device has a triple-section lightweight aluminum alloy shaft which gives a long reach and allows delicate touch so the lost balls may be located and recovered. The Retrieval when closed fits like a club in a bag. It is rustproof.

MACGREGOR SHOWS PROS HOW TO IMPROVE SHIPPING

Pro problems of shipping expenses and time are handled in a valuable booklet issued by MacGregor Golf. Bob Rickey got up the book telling the advantages and disadvantages of shipping by parcel post, truck, freight forwarders, railway express and rail freight, and presenting suggestions for pros' most economical and satisfactory use of various methods of shipment.

The booklet gives examples of various means of shipment and tells how MacGregor's traffic mgr., and other department heads coordinate their work in trying to save shipping expense for professionals.

Mention is made of a case involving change in parcel post rates in which pros' failure to make use of the new regulations, despite two suggestions from MacGregor, cost pros "a great deal of money."

Jimmy Demaret golf jacket with ribbed insert to allow shoulder freedom now is being offered to pro shops. The new construction is called Flex-o-Rib. Garments are made in calm and sophisticated combinations of colors as well as in some vivid combinations for the color blind.

Yard Pony, made by Highway Equipment Co., 616 D Ave., Northwest, Cedar Rapids, Ia., small gasoline-driven front-wheel driven cart originally intended for yard work, now is being recommended by its makers as a golf car.

MULLER JOINS BUCKNER

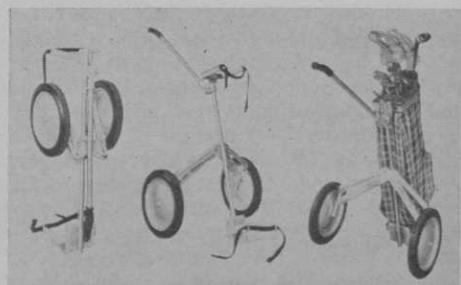

J. H. Muller has been appointed by John B. Gill, gen. mgr., Buckner Mfg. Co., Fresno, Calif., to management of Buckner's agricultural sales dept.

Muller comes to Buckner from Farmland Irrigation Co., Portland, Ore., for which he was field representative, then district mgr. in California and Arizona.

He and his brothers farm hundreds of acres of irrigated grain land.

C. A. Harris has become traveling service representative for Buckner.

SPALDING HAS NEW GOLF BAG CART

A new, easy-rolling golf bag cart has been introduced by A. G. Spalding & Bros. This cart is adjustable to both the size of the caddy bag and the height of the player. All parts are fabricated from quality material. Good balance and free rolling, large ball-bearing wheels make for minimum pulling effort. It is rugged enough for use as a rental cart. It folds to only 14 in. in width. It accommodates all size and style golf bags. Frame and handle are of strong tubular steel with rust-resistant cadmium finish. Tires are semi-pneumatic puncture-proof. Wheels are easily retractable to sides when released by finger-pressure lever lock. Adjustable handle has curved cushion grip.

If any of you fellows know John McLaren Brown, formerly of St. Andrews, Scotland, please tell him to get in touch with Austin Lodge 850 AF&AM, 241 N. Central ave., Chicago, Ill. . . . His brother and sister in Scotland are trying to locate Brown.

Harold Sampson, 59, professional at Burlingame (Calif.) CC, died in Mills Memorial hospital, San Mateo, Calif., June 18 of a cerebral hemorrhage suffered 2 days previously while playing on his home course . . . He was born in Marysville, Calif., and for many years had been a valuable and beloved official in Northern Calif. and national PGA organizations . . . Had done well in tournament play then concentrated on instruction and junior promotion . . . As chmn., PGA Educational committee he did much to extend the modern idea of research in golf teaching . . . He wrote two books and numerous excellent magazine articles on instruction . . . He and Mrs. Sampson were at the PGA Seniors' championship at Dunedin this winter . . . He is survived by his widow and daughter Shirley . . . He was one of the most pleasant, competent fellows in golf and his passing means a keen personal loss to all who knew him.

Long Island PGA elects Al Ciuci pres. for Al's 15th consecutive term . . . Indiana PGA has a tournament circuit of juniors scheduled . . . Hoosier pros believe they've got some great young talent budding . . . Kid who sure looks like he might become great is 14-year-old son of Don Carmichael, pro at Martinsville (Ind.) CC . . . Walter Kennedy, owner of Martinsville (Ind.) CC and famed Home Lawn health resort at Martinsville, was host to spring tournament of Indiana Seniors . . . Kennedy, now a lively 73 and playing golf for the past 30 years, showed guests the pace with one over par for two rounds of the 9-hole layout.
