

A new combination shoe tree, shoe rack and shoe keep has been designed to hold every sport shoe, as well as every dress shoe, in a man's wardrobe. Because of its size (7 in. by 14 in.), it can be mounted on locker doors or walls. For additional information and price breakdowns contact Sales Manager, After Six Formals, 22nd and Market, Philadelphia, Pa.

The Vibo golf cart can be towed safely at speeds of up to 70 miles an hour, it is reported by Vibo Manufacturing Company, Des Moines, Iowa, which bases its claims on demonstrations.

A patented free-wheeling device invented by Vibo President Bob Astley disengages the transmission. Ball and socket for the hook-up are included as standard equipment.

The car has a fiber glass body on a welded steel frame. It is powered by a Wisconsin gas engine, has forward and reverse, variable speeds and automobile-type ignition starter.

Braking is effected when the accelerator is let up so a golfer can hop out of the car without parking and setting brakes, and leave the motor running.

The Vibo sells for $790 f.o.b. Des Moines.

A new V-blade snow play that fits most popular riding type tractors of 5 hp or more is being introduced by Lantz Manufacturing Division, Greenville, Ohio.

One man can quickly mount or remove this plow from a tractor without special tools, according to Lantz.

The entire unit is built of heavy gauge steel.

For further information write: Lantz Manufacturing Division, Dept. 106, Greenville, O. 45331.

Studies show that golf cars on Goodyear Terra-Tires exert less pressure per inch than the heels of a walking golfer, the company says. This, it adds, is because of the tires' relatively large size and low air pressure. Car on the left, in demonstration on sand, is equipped with Terra-Tires.

The Gossner Cable Lock, with 36 inches of tough aircraft cable that reels from a stainless steel case, can be used to protect golf cars. For further information write to Inter Pacific Ltd., World Trade Center, San Francisco, Calif. 94111.

The elements of Leadership

GOLF MAGAZINE, the world's largest-selling golfing publication, takes the lead in saluting the game's most proficient players...paying tribute to their contributions to the progress of the game...with the annual announcement of GOLF's All-America team.

Again this year, the editors will poll the nation's golf writers and sportscasters to determine the eight greatest golfers of 1965...those judged to be most proficient with driver; fairway woods; long, middle and short irons; pitching and sand wedge and putter.

Members of the All-America team for 1965 will be feted by the industry, Golf Hall of Fame members, leaders in business and government at GOLF's Second Annual Awards Dinner in New York on December 13.

GOLF's establishment of this annual national recognition of the game's most skillful professionals is but one facet of its continuing program of projects designed to build and promote the game's national stature. Such are the responsibilities—and the opportunities that go with leadership.
