Caddie Scholarship fund as beneficiary and the Childrens Hospital has received about $350,000 from amateur participants and spectators . . . It ranks well among golf's welfare operations and gets star pros with children of their own playing or blushing as the Children's Memorial hospital work is of value to every child.

Although pros in getting prize money may be said to be the primary beneficiaries of golf's charity events the fellows really do a better job than they are given credit for as money raisers for charities . . . Golf is far ahead of any other sport as a charity fund raiser . . . As far as we know there's never been a compilation of golf's collections for worthy causes . . . That would make a public relations item for the PGA PR counsel Fred Corcoran who helped clients on the Thunderbird tournament raise a huge sum for Westchester County, N. Y., hospitals . . . Bing Crosby's tournaments have contributed more than a million to Monterey peninsula boys club operations, National Golf Day has raised more than a million and the Western Open golf championship, which is a real difficult and thankless job of promotion, has brought in a bundle for caddie scholars . . . How many more events there are like the Children's Memorial pro-am, I wouldn't even guess but I do know that another pro-am in Chicago, with local pros, annually raises a bale for a hospital and by a long way the biggest of golf's fund-raising events is the annual competition put on by fellows at seven private clubs in the Chicago district which gets more than $1 million yearly for Chicago charities. •
