

MEET YOUR SUPERINTENDENTS !

DICK WILLIAMS is the golf course superintendent at the newly redesigned Pokegama Golf Course in Grand Rapids. The last two years saw Pokegama expanding from a 9-Hole layout to a totally reconstructed 18-Hole test. During this time Dick supervised the construction and also kept the original nine holes playable for as long as possible. By the time the grand opening occurred this past June, you can bet Dick had already invested in the course an enormous amount of his "blood and sweat". Golf, softball and hockey are some of Dick's favorite pastimes but he and his wife, Karen, claim they spend most of their time taking care of their two springer spaniels.

RODNEY JOHNSON has been the golf course superintendent at the Clifton Highlands Golf Club in Prescott, Wisconsin for the past four years. Rodney just might have responsibility for one of the largest domains in the association as 265 acres of land fall under his control. Before coming to Prescott, Rodney worked in the Green Bay area and also graduated from the two year turf program at Gateway Technical Institute in Kenosha. During the winter Rodney runs a successful tubing program on the golf course grounds. It is not only a winter time occupation, though, as the entire Johnson family which includes wife, Janell, and four year old son, Brent, enjoy tubing as a winter time recreation.
