

A Better Hole Notes Is Up To You!

DALE CALDWELL

It is my privilege as chairman of the Editorial Committee to lead off the committee reports of the 1981 edition of HOLE NOTES. Being as early in the year as it is, I can't bore you with financial reports or progress reports. I'll try to keep this on an editorial basis and inform you of our objectives for 1981 as a committee.

The first objective or duty we have is to keep the membership informed. This will consist of items concerning our state association. Upcoming events such as monthly meetings, tournaments, mini-conferences and annual conferences will be included. Items of common interest and appeal and pertinent data from your Board of Directors will be dealt with. News from the national association will appear as will information such as University Field Days and Seminars.

Another objective or duty is to educate. Articles concerning updates from the University will appear. If any new information on disease, chemicals or maintenance procedures should arise, we will publish it. Any new or change in legislation which affects us or our occupation will also appear.

A third objective which is a continuation from last year is to obtain membership participation in our publication. Articles can be submitted by anyone, regardless of classification. They might concern an interesting project that you have recently undertaken or they might relay an interesting observation you have come across. You might also have a hint or a tip or two you would like to share with the membership on something that worked well for you in a particular situation.

The last and perhaps most important objective we have is to maintain the high quality that we as an association have come to demand and expect from our publication.

We're seen in all the right places.
