

Schilling Resigns From GCSAA Executive Office

The Golf Course Superintendents Association of America (GCSAA) has announced that John M. Schilling has resigned as chief executive officer, effective January 1994.

Schilling has been with GCSAA for 15 years and has served as executive director and CEO during the past 10 years.

He is leaving the association to start his own business.

"John's leadership of the staff and his successful implementation of the board of directors' policies and programs have had a very positive impact on our association, our profession and our members," said GCSAA President Randy Nichols, CGCS, in announcing the resignation to association membership. "It is with deep regret that I inform you that John has resigned.

"The current board of directors has fully supported John and is extremely disappointed with his decision to resign," Nichols added. "However, we do respect his desires to begin his own business, where his ability and skills will again be demonstrated."

Diana Green, former GCSAA senior director of operations, and Robert D. Ochs, former GCSAA senior director of communications and association general counsel, will join Schilling in his new endeavor.

Schilling has agreed to stay on with GCSAA through January to assist the association in making a smooth transition in leadership. He also will help manage GCSAA's 65th International Golf Course Conference and Show, scheduled for Jan. 31-Feb. 7, 1994, in Dallas.

GCSAA's board of directors currently is conducting a nationwide search to locate a replacement.
