

S&R Changes Name To 'The GCSAA Foundation'

The 501(c)(3) corporation created by the Golf Course Superintendents Association of America (GCSAA) in 1956 to support education, scholarship, science and research programs in the area of turfgrass and golf course management has a new name: The GCSAA Foundation.

The Foundation's board of trustees voted in October to adopt the new name for the former "GCSAA Scholarship & Research Fund, Inc."

"The GCSAA Foundation suggests a closer link with the association," said GCSAA President Joseph G. Baidy, CGCS. "More importantly, the new name is a more accurate reflection of our goals and objectives."

Scholarship and research will remain primary functions of The GCSAA Foundation, but the new name also will embrace GCSAA's Disaster Assistance Fund, its non-turf-related Legacy Awards and other programs appropriate to an institution supported by private gifts.
