Choice of Bird Houses

By Steve Ellingson

Pesticides and housing developments have taken away areas in which birds find their food and shelter.

You don't have to be a disciple of ecology to want to help the gentle songsters survive in our society. After all, they're some of man's best helpers, working from morning to night helping rid our farms and gardens of harmful insects.

Seven assorted feeding shelters and houses are shown here. All are decorative and will add a colorful touch to your course. Furthermore, they're designed the way birds like them.

To obtain the pattern assortment number C-12X for building all seven of the shelters and houses pictured, send $3 (add 50¢ for airmail delivery) by currency, check or money order to: Steve Ellingson, (The Washington Post Pattern Dept.) Box 2383, Van Nuys, Calif. 91409.
