the knowledge available to him will be four times as great. By the time that same child is 50 years old, it will be 32 times as great, and 97 percent of everything known in the world will have been learned since the time he was born. To survive, the individual must become infinitely more adaptable and capable than ever before.

Other speakers on the panel, the golf professionals and club managers discussed what is obsolete within their operations and how the three of us must work together to achieve the goals of our country club. The other speakers were R. William Clarke, Immediate Past President, Professional Golfers' Association of America; Peter A. D'Angelo, C.C.M., Immediate Past President, Club Managers' Association of America; Walter H. Asche, President, National Capital Club Managers' Association; William Strausbaugh, Jr., President, Mid-Atlantic Professional Golfers' Association; Gerard F. Hurley, C.A.E., Executive Director, National Club Association; John A. Harris, Executive Secretary, Washington Area Tennis Patrons Foundation; Horace G. Duncan, C.C.M., Executive Director, Club Managers' Association of America; and Richard H. Welch, C.C.M., Immediate Past President, Greater Baltimore Club Managers' Association, and Director Region 4, Club Managers' Association of America. The moderator for the panel was Charles E. Smith, C.C.M., Past President, Club Managers' Association of America.

Also included in this panel were Harry Eckhoff of the National Golf Foundation, and Harry Easterly, Jr., Vice President of the United States Golf Association.

This joint educational assembly was the first meeting of this kind held in the Mid-Atlantic, and from all remarks, certainly will not be the last. This panel covered all aspects of management of a country club. This knowledge is necessary to help all of us better understand the whole country club operation.

Over 300 were in attendance, many brought their wives and members of their boards of directors from their country clubs. The panel discussion was followed by a very elaborate French dinner, which included three different wines, the bottles being concealed in brown paper bags and not identified until after dinner.

The National Capital Club Managers Association is to be commended for this well organized and much needed, successful joint meeting of the club managers, golf professionals and golf course superintendents.

KENTUCKY BLUEGRASS*

*U.S. Plant Patent #3186, Dwarf Variety

A professional grass for professional people

One reason Baron is the choice of most professionals is the combination of fast germination, slow growing and its ability to quickly form what sod growers call "a tight-fisted root system." You can mow Baron as low as  $\frac{3}{4}$ -inch — and that's another reason Baron is ideally suited for golf courses, sod fields, fine lawns, industrial and other landscaping areas. Since Baron is winter hardy, it keeps its deep green color well into the cold months. . . highly disease-resistant, too.

An Expression of Sympathy

We all express our deepest sympathy to Russell Roberts on the passing of his wife, Dodie, this past March 28th; and to Grafton Lumsden, whose father, Talmage, passed away. Talmage was formerly superintendent of Bethesda Country Club before Grafton took over the job.
