

instructor must be the "Pros" if the "Cons" are the students and the "Cons" if the "Pros" are to be educated. One must go around the entire 360° of the circle. Such training will permit the greenkeeper to be better able to diagnose his turf, machinery, cost, or water system trouble, and properly prescribe for the particular problem.

In the study of equipment it is particularly necessary for the instructor to refrain from any influencing talk, yet he must see that every good and bad feature of a machine is discussed. I want to say here that if it wasn't for the help and co-operation given us by all equipment manufacturers, seedsmen and all the departments of our college, we could not possibly do the successful job that is being done now.

With such a training as I have briefly described, given in a practical atmosphere, the greenkeeper will be able to meet the problems with intelligence and confidence.

Gentlemen: In closing I'm going to quote from Elbert Hubbard because I think he sums up the whole situation:
