Hawthorne Boss Says Hello

March 5th, 1930

Colonel John Morley,

Youngstown, Ohio.

My dear Colonel:

I salute you and send congratulations, not only for your deserved title but for the wonderful showing at Louisville.

I have just returned from the South to which place I journeyed from the Convention and hasten to assure you of the excellent time I had and to comment on the marked improvement in every department of the show. This, to my mind, is proof that the old adage "Nothing succeeds like success" must be true.

The machinery and supply exhibits were marvelous and what an improvement over former years. Of course, thanks to Fred Burkhardt.

The talks were splendid and full of meat.

I hope to be able to drop in on you sometime during this summer.

With best wishes and hope for your continued good health, I am, dear Colonel,

One of your obedient privates,

R. H. Montgomery.

A Novel Plan

A NOVEL plan in the construction of golf courses has been announced by Ulrich Golf Courses, Inc., Sycamore, Ohio. In outlining this plan, Mr. R. O. Ulrich, president of the company, says:

"Where a community is interested in a golf course to the extent that they will support same by a satisfactory membership we construct and operate a course under our own management. We opened our first course under this plan at Shelby, Ohio last August with a membership of over two hundred as the Shelby Country Club.

"Under this plan we give the members of each club practically all the privileges as if they owned the course themselves, they having an organization among themselves of their own officers, committees, etc. The plan proved so popular with the members that we decided to add additional courses and now have under construction a new course at Marion, O., and at Upper Sandusky, O., both of which will be opened soon.

"The kind of course we construct at the beginning depends of course, largely upon number of members and membership fee. The idea of members having a
