Bob Hayes Says

"I am more than happy to see the large and representative gathering here tonight and trust that each and everyone is having a very enjoyable time and will carry away a pleasant memory of this happy occasion. It is indeed encouraging to find such keen interest and hearty cooperation on the part of the Westchester Association.

"I would like to say a word or two tonight relative to the recent Convention at Louisville, Kentucky. It was an unqualified success both from the manufacturers and superintendents point of view, all sections of the country as well as Canada being well represented. A large and varied exhibit of equipment drew the attention and admiration of the visitors, the lectures were extremely interesting and last but not least the Banquet was something to be remembered and how.

"It was decided to hold the next Convention at Columbus, Ohio, the home state of our honored president, Colonel John Morley, who is listening in on this program and who assured me were it possible he would be glad to be with us here tonight. We are all looking forward to seeing the Convention held in New York in 1932 and to accomplish that end, it is up to us, here in the East to show a keener interest in the National Greenkeepers Association, so let the slogan be, 100% membership in the N. A. G. A. by 1932 and bring the Convention to New York.

Plan Now to Irrigate Your Fairways

With BUCKNER'S CALIFORNIA sprinklers. They are standard the world over. We sold more than twice as many sprinklers and valves during March this year than sold during any other month since we have been in business. THERE IS A REASON. Old standards are obsolete. The methods which satisfied formerly are not economical today. We have pioneered all the new improved methods in golf course irrigation. More BUCKNER SPRINKLERS and VALVES are used on golf courses than all other makes combined.
