he Course. Set in open pasture land in the hills north of Salinas, Salinas Golf and Country Club is a private members course of just over 6,000 yards and 300 members. It was originally completed as a nine-hole course in the 1940s. Some time in the late fifties the other nine was added.

The course rewards wellplaced shots to pars and birdies, but if your tee shot finds the wrong place the score can soar. The course went through some renovations in 1992 with a new driving range, a lake, nine new greens, and a new maxi 5 irrigation system.

The Superintendent.

Superintendent Bill Kissick, CGCS, came to the golf maintenance industry in a round about manner. He started out in the horticulture program at Cal Poly Pomona to become a nurseryman. He went into landscape construction while at school and formed a company after finishing the program that continued for the next four and a half years in the L.A.
