

Brillion Machines Designed For Big Landscape, Sod Work

Machines that reportedly enable one man to prepare the seedbed and plant seed in one operation, at a rate of 50 to 60 acres a day, are now manufactured by Brillion Iron Works, Brillion, Wis. These SSL, 8- and 10-foot seeders have built into them brush agitators and precisely calibrated seeding devices said to provide additional savings of up to 50% on expensive seeds.

A double set of notched semi-steel rollers press down small stones into the soil, crush lumps, and eliminate air pockets to form a clodfree seedbed. The precise seeding mechanism accurately meters seed at preset rates into the small furrows formed by the front rollers. The smaller rear wheels are offset to split the ridges and furrows and tuck the seed into the desired top half-inch of the moist soil for fast germination.

Preparing seedbed and seeding major landscape projects and sod farms in a single one-man operation is possible with SSL model seeding machines, manufacturer Brillion Iron Works says. These machines are built in 8- and 10-foot sizes, and have brush agitators.

gle-gang models have 9-, 10½- and 12-foot rolling widths. Triple-gang pulverizers are available in rolling widths from 15 to 20 feet.

The pulverizers incorporate semi-steel cast iron wheels, 21 inches in diameter and 6 inches wide, weighing 60 pounds. Wheels are carried on a 4-inch pipe axle and have triple-sealed, lifetime, lubricated bearings.
