Fall Planting Excellent For Certain Ornamentals

Fall is an excellent time to plant many ornamental trees such as evergreens, hackberry and moraine locust, and shrubs such as spirea, according to Jim Nighswonger, extension landscape architect, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kans.

He notes that growing problems can often be traced back to poor planting practices. Whether planting bare-root or balled and burlapped trees or shrubs, Nighswonger says make sure the hole dug is large enough. The larger a balled and burlapped plant, the greater the hole size should be in relation to ball diameter. For a 12 to 18" soil ball, add 6 to 8" for hole diameter.

Plant should be set at about the same depth it had before moving. Back fill with good soil and peat moss after planting, and water thoroughly. Nighswonger adds that fertilizer is seldom needed until the plant has established itself in the new location.
