Over 110 Research Papers Due for Jan. NEWCC Meet

More than 110 scientific papers will be presented when some 800 weed experts from 13 states gather Jan. 4 to 6 for the 21st Annual Northeastern Weed Control Conference, at the Hotel Commodore in New York City.

In addition to research reports, representatives from government, industry, universities, research institutions, regulatory agencies, and other areas will delve into the many phases of weed and control problems. NEWCC's program will emphasize latest developments and information pertaining to weed control in turf, ornamentals, forests, roadsides, industrial sites, railroad and power company rights-of-way, and aquatic environments, as well as in agronomic crops.

Final details for the 1967 meeting, one of four regional weed conferences held each year in the U.S., are firm and can be obtained by writing to Dr. Arthur Bing, Secretary-Treasurer, Northeastern Weed Control Con-
