The Cover

A new chipper on the market—the Precision Tree Destroyer—promises to be an important addition to the tree care industry. It's a big machine—but portable and mounted on a trailer bed and pulled by a regular tractor at regular truck highway speeds. The chipper will handle tree trunks up to 22" in diameter. It is made by Precision Chipper Corp., a company with a quarter-century of chipper manufacturing experience on stationary chippers for the forest products industry. Two smaller units, scheduled for introduction late this year, are being built. Operating the Tree Destroyer is a veteran Precision employee, Clyde Hill.
