GUEST EDITORIAL

talk about fertilizer being taken from the golf courses in America to supply farmers in developing nations. What is needed is funds from the wealthier countries to secure fertilizer deliveries and to help pay shipping charges to the users."

Recent commentaries on non-farmer fertilizer use have tended to imply that their usage is frivolous and entirely dispensable.

Briefly the benefits and implications are more important to our environment and life style than have been implied:

1. Over 30,000 retail outlets receive 15% of their business income from these products.

2. 11,000 golf courses require nutrients to maintain playing surfaces.
3. Green belts and home lawns in metro-areas contribute to cooler summers and purer air. The average home lawn absorbs enough carbon dioxide (a pollutant) and releases oxygen to provide enough for 8 persons.
4. Home vegetable gardens are said to number 57 million by recent Gallup Poll. An important contribution to good diet and lower cost meals.

It is hard to understand why the focus of attention has turned to such a small factor in an attempt to solve a complex problem of world food supply.

Sacred cows in India wander the countryside; a religious phenomena that ignores the protein available and the food stuffs consumed in sacrosanct survival.

In the long run reason will prevail and objective analysis will seek out the balanced solutions to man's most basic needs. Must the short term irrationality always create dislocations that cause more damage than good.
