The Magazine of Landscape and Golf Course Management Since 1962

24 Zoysiagrass Stands Up to St. Louis Conditions

A complete management program for zoysiagrass is outlined as a solution to the cold winters and hot summers of the transition zone by Stan Zontek, north-central director of the USGA Green Section. Zontek compares planting and management techniques tried at various golf clubs in St. Louis.

31 Multi-Course Management and the SUPER-intendent

Companies which operate or maintain more than one golf course are growing rapidly. More and more superintendents are responsible for a number of courses with superintendents under them. Weeds Trees & Turf talks to the super-superintendents and the owners of these companies.

67 Unions . . . Handle with Care or Face a Strike

Labor lawyer Richard Lehr gives key points in dealing with unions where they exist and how to prevent their development where they have not organized

LANDSCAPE MANAGEMENT

39 Business Surpasses Mother Nature

Time, money and personnel present greater problems to today's golf course superintendent than anything mother nature can dish out. Weeds Trees & Turf reports the findings from its latest industry survey.

42 Six Courses on 850 Acres, That's Pinehurst

Two Pinehurst superintendents give "day-in-the-life" accounts of managing six prestige courses with a $1.55 million budget.

50 Milwaukee CC Boasts of Tree and Student Programs

Danny Quast believes in delegating responsibilities and grooming future superintendents at his 350-member private club.

60 Renovation of Illahe Changes Priorities for Super

Illahe was already fast, but the Greens Committee asked superintendent Swancutt to reshape lakes and bunkers to make the course in Salem, Oregon, as attractive as the mountains in the background.
