THIS AND THAT

Gator for cheap

If anyone ever offered you a John Deere Gator for $50, you'd probably envision a rusted out ol' clinkety clunker with the tires slashed. But what if they told you the Gator was brand new? Would you think that person had inhaled too many diesel fumes?

Well, think again. With 50 greenbacks ($50), and a little luck, you could end up with a brand spanking new Gator. All you have to do is buy a ticket for the Evergreen Foundation raffle at the GIE Show Nov. 3-7. Those interested should contact Pat Jones of Golfdom magazine at 440/891-3126 or pjones@advanstar.com. See you later, alligator? Hardly. Try, see you later in my new Gator.

Men in blue honor men in green

Men in blue honored men in green recently when the Laurel Hill Police Department and the Fraternal Order of Police presented an Award of Appreciation to Bozzuto Landscaping Company for its work on the Laurel Police Memorial at Ivy Hill Cemetery in Laurel, MD. Bozzuto not only provided the landscape plan and design for the memorial but also donated the materials and labor. The idea for the memorial came from Office Rick McGill.

"We were very honored that Rick came to us for assistance with the memorial, and were more than happy to participate in this worthwhile project," said Tom Davis, president of Bozzuto. "A number of our clients are in this area, and we have always felt that it is important to give back to the communities where we work."

Scholarship winner

Anyeley Dzegede, a June 2000 graduate of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT) with a master's degree in city planning, became the latest winner of the 2000 Landscape Architecture Foundation (LAF)/Rain Bird scholarship. As a result, Dzegede will receive $1,000 to help her pursue a master's degree in landscape architecture. This fall, she will attend Harvard University Graduate School of Design, specializing in urban landscape design.

"Anyeley's educational and professional goals are a perfect fit for this scholarship," says Art Ludwick, senior vice president of Rain Bird Corporate Services. "She has a true passion for landscape architecture and will be an asset to the profession."
